

Happiness is a Smile

The Dillinger Escape Plan

trapped infancy
what was lost in you found in solitude I've seen that all the fun and games aren't that fair to play I've seen that all the fucking games aren't that fun to play you should say everything you wanna say leave nothing unsoken for the early grave still you stay frozen when you need to leave it's only through death or love that we'll be free death or love and we'll be free a fortress crumbles from inside no fix when you're building on the broken and happiness is just a smile there's no way to replace the absence that grew cold like a sun set finally there's a glimpse of light cracking over the dark once illuminated