

Look To the Stars

The Dreggs

I've been searching for a way out
For my time is up my dear
So darlin' please don't ask while
I've failed up on myself
I've been running from the fear

All these questions I haven't asked myself
Have been building up inside
Like, why did we ever force our love
When the love inside us died
When the love inside us died

Look to the skies towards the moon
Where the stars align
You see the colours change first
Before you change my mind

Look to the stars know who you are my dear
When you love someone enough to know you're here
Look to the stars know who you are my dear
When you love someone enough to know you're here

And I've been waiting for a certain kind of love that I realised was not real
For so long I had built up the walls around me
And felt a numbness of which I did not feel
It's plain to see that the only time I found my sense was
When I lost myself in the unforeseen

Look to the skies towards the moon
Where the stars align
You see the colours change first
Before you change my mind

Look to the stars know who you are my dear
When you love someone enough to know you're here
Look to the stars know who you are my dear
When you love someone enough to know you're here

Look to the skies towards the moon
Where the stars align
You see the colours change first
Before you change my mind
Look to the skies towards the oceans that flood the highs
Angelic voices keep my heart so mesmerised
Look to the skies towards the moon
Where the stars align
You see the colours change first
Before you change my mind
Look to the skies towards the oceans that flood the highs
Angelic voices keep my heart so mesmerised
Took me a while to find out before I realised
It was a different kind of person before your lies
Had I have known this would cause me to lose my mind
I took a different type of approach but I was blind

Look to the stars know who you are my dear

When you love someone enough to know you're here
Look to the stars know who you are my dear
When you love someone enough to know you're here