

Farewell

The Duskfall

I smell something rotten, in this lie we live.
You would think I'd forgotten, but I never forgive.
Your treason deceived me, I might be fucking naive.
So lost in emotions, but I know I live.

So don't you force feed me with facts.
I know the results before we try.
Don't sidestep my grasp.
Let me choke the truth out of you.

So I bid farewell, close my eyes and smile.
Erase you from my mind, in the barren lakes I bury you.

My mind is determined, you can't grow on dead soil.
Another picture fading and all promises torn.
Set sails and depart my world, I pack the poison you need.
So here's a "get lost" with my middle finger raised, I'll even draw the map to hell.

So don't you force feed me with facts.
I know the results before we try.
Don't sidestep my grasp.
Let me choke the truth out of you.

So I bid farewell, close my eyes and smile.
Erase you from my mind, in the barren lakes I bury you.

You will never be the one for me, so you better run and hide.
I will never be the one for you, so my proposition is to stay a way.
So you think you need my advice.
Here's an easy one: stay dead.

So I bid farewell, close my eyes and smile.
Erase you from my mind, in the barren lakes I bury you.