take naivety from me
and leave me isolated all at once I feel so free yet so captivated you make the endless waves of time seem so temporary,
you're my missionary...
emissary...
adversary.

R: you define the line between human and divine in this empty place intrinsic grace so necessary see the skies divide when hope and fear collides from this cemetery offer me this sanctuary

there is violence when you move yet I'm stationary devastate all my design and make it arbitrary you break my legs yet leave my knees my will penetrated I'm eviscerated.. consecrated.. lacerated!

R: you define the line between human and divine in this empty place intrinsic grace so necessary see the skies divide when hope and fear collide from this cemetery offer me this sanctuary

this heart you break it and make it sacred these eyes awaken this breath is taken from you

R: you define the line between human and divine in this empty place intrinsic grace so necessary see the skies divide when hope and fear collide from this cemetery offer me this sanctuary