

The Huntress

The Echoing Green

you're in my headlights with nowhere to run and I'm the huntress and I'm getting my gun I've got your eyes wide this is so much fun and we've just begun

and when we dance I'm bringing hell in a dress and with a glance I'll leave your heart in a mess with every word I've got a lie to confess your eyes are so committal this might hurt a little

you take the worst of me and just make it seem like hell in the way you break the best of me and just shake the rest of heaven away this thing that we've become might seem like love to some all the lies you've fed to me they leave me standing empty with nothing to say

and like a cross you give the weary a rest and like a vampire
I take it right in the chest and every chance I'm putting grace to the test and I feel so numb

it's such a tragedy this violent love affair with vanity every stupid promise is a fallacy I'll make you settle for less your end has come

you take the worst of me
and just make it seem like hell in the way
you break the best of me and
just shake the rest of heaven away
this thing that we've become
might seem like love to some
all the lies you've fed to me
they leave me standing empty
with nothing to say