

Pyrithion House

The Famine

Just dodged a close call.

So tell me, how does it feel to put your hand in the fire and pull it back in one piece?

Connect the dots back to a sense of relief. Remember everything you did that day.

Stare at the night sky and feel the pulse beneath scars.
Count back the minutes to know how lucky you are.

Connect the dots back to a sense of relief. Remember everything you did that day.

You came so close to being alive. For what it's worth, at least you tried.

Remember everything you did that day.