

Punk Unity

The Filaments

There's something we all need, something called punk unity.

It's something we all need, the force we use the air we breathe.

Stand up and join as one.

We're never giving in every punk and every skin.

This world will be ours tonight.

Ten men are better than one that's something that I believe.

Together we will stand arm in arm and hand in hand.

We'll stand for what is right.

We're never giving in every punk and every skin.

This world will be ours tonight.