

Two Horizons

The Foreshadowing

My heart is empty for each of your tales
My inner voice is like a siren
And if she could warn me from dangers and hate
My conscience will find two horizons

A thousand voices has talked to my soul
Each one has spoken his own plain truth
And if I'll find the best one for myself
My conscience will find two horizons

We had enough
And now we set off our way
We'll meet again
So long

We had enough
It's time to split up old days
Pale and afraid
We part

The clouds have vanished
Or simply too far
We left our bodies here to dry up
It's been a long walk away from my mind
My conscience will find two horizons

We had enough
And now we set off our way
We'll meet again
So long
We had enough
It's time to split up old days
Pale and afraid
We part
We had enough
And now we'll split up our ways
We'll meet again
Somehow