

Born to Live & Born to Die

The Foundations

She lives alone in a meadow
Picking flowers and biding her time
As she looks at the clock on the wall
It stopped many years ago

Born to live and born to die
You don't know, tomorrow may bring joy
Love to give and two to die
Save the world for every girl and boy

Born to live and born to die
You don't know, tomorrow may bring joy
Love to give and two to die
Save the world for every girl and boy

Little old lady alone in your shoe
What do your children think of you
They're out in the world
Enjoying their lives
Loving their husbands and their wives

Maybe someday they might pay you a visit
Maybe someday they might drop you a line
Life is a jungle and it's hard to believe it
So drink up your blackberry wine

Born to live and born to die
You don't know, tomorrow may bring joy
Love to give and two to die
Save the world for every girl and boy

Born to live and born to die
You don't know, tomorrow may bring joy
Love to give and two to die
Save the world for every girl and boy

Born to live and born to die
You don't know, tomorrow may bring joy
Love to give and two to die
Save the world for every girl and boy

Born to live and born to die
You don't know, tomorrow may bring joy
Love to give and two to die
Save the world for every girl and boy

Born to live and born to die
You don't know, tomorrow may bring joy
Love to give and two to die
Save the world for every girl and boy
