

Alone

The Franklin Electric

And I took one good look, at myself
As the mirror suggested
That I don't have a clue
With this unfamiliar face
I'm staring at a blank set of eyes again
Maybe once in a while
You should a deeper look and see

And you barely know
So you take the time it needs
Just to focus on it
Before it leaves

It's gone
And it's hard just to face this one alone
And it's hard just to face this one alone
And it's hard just to face this one alone
And it's hard just to face this one alone

There's a voice I heard
And it's calling from underneath my feet
And I'm surrounded by these images of these perfect people that I'm supposed to be
And there she is, there ain't no difference
Ain't no difference between me and you
Or everyone in the place is just like me
Holding hands with the devil and the other hand is free

Maybe there's some hope for us
Maybe there's some hope for me
And it's hard just to face this one alone
And it's hard just to face this one alone
And it's hard just to face this one alone
And it's hard just to face this one alone
Alone

Trust in I, for you
Somebody else you can look to
Ensure you're safely [?]

And it's hard just to face this one alone
And it's hard just to face this one alone
And it's hard just to face this one alone
Alone
