

I Know You, You Know Me

The Franklin Electric

And it sets you apart as it gets under your skin
A little rough around the edges, there was nothing you could give
If you wanna travel blindly, said there's one place I should go
We speak about it kindly, you said there's something I should know
You said the face of love is fearless and it pardons all your faults
Through the silent and the weakness, it accepts at any cost

Yeah, I know you and you know me
And you're always tryna escape it by the back door when I'm asleep
Yeah, I know you, and you know me
And you're always tryna escape it by the back door when I'm asleep

You don't wanna talk about it, it's best that you wait and see
And you don't wanna get the message from the cousin of your defeat
When it's a lover and a burden as it spirals underneath
When it's bound to be revealed
'Cause I

And I know you and you know me
And you're always tryna escape it by the back door when I'm asleep
Yeah, I know you and you know me
And you're always tryna escape it by the back door when I'm asleep

I've been broke by perception I'd, let it sink in Sitting and watching it fall through
May I make a suggestion, before you get up and leave
I know you're protecting but it's something I can do

Yeah, I know you and you know me
But you're always tryna escape it by the back door when I'm asleep
Yeah, I know you and you know me
But you're always tryna escape it by the back door when I'm asleep
Yeah, I know you and you know me
And I know you and you know me
