The Futureheads

At the stroke of midnight your eyes told me
Your waters had broken
Then the world around us disappeared
Suspended in time frozen

You sat up and I fell in to the ocean
Watching, waiting from the bottom of the ocean

Don't forgot to breathe
Breathe with me and squeeze my fist
I've got no doubt, not a single ounce
That you can conquer this

You made it seem so undemanding
Your strength, your grace is beyond my understanding

Don't forget to breathe and squeeze my fist
She's almost here

Seven hours and four minutes
Seven hours and four minutes

I watch you twist and turn in burning pain and ecstasy
I watch you leave the world behind it's like you're floating in the sea

I see your body tremble and I watch the shaking shadows

One last push and we're steady in the flow
I always wondered but I can never know

Seven hours and four minutes
Seven hours and four minutes
Seven hours and four minutes
Seven hours and four minutes
Seven hours and four minutes
Seven hours and four minutes
