We're Getting a Divorce, You Keep the Diner

The Gaslight Anthem

We were the magnificent dreamers In secret lamplight hideouts We swore the world couldn't break us Even when the world took us down

So here I am strugglin' out in the mighty jungle Movin' 18 miles a minute but not slowing down for nothin' I look to my left and I look to my right And I'm callin' out for my brothers but it's so dark in this ni ght Am I alone?

Did they fall down by the wayside? Was I movin' too blind to see them? Were they callin' out to me? Or did despair set in?

Were the things that we wanted when we were still 16 Only passing and fleeting or just too far out of reach? Were you hard up or broken man, I woulda helped you out Were you numb and distracted when I was calling out? I was calling out

On a Sunday morning the whole crowd assembled I've done some things that I'm not too proud of I've never left you, a deaf ear for longing Some hearts are gallows, I'm not here for hangin' around

It's all right, man I'm only bleeding, man Stay hungry, stay free And do the best you can
