

What Love Is Made Of

The Grass Roots

Right now, my love, my trust in you is gone
I can't go on
Because you hurt me so
When you said you love me more
Than you really did
And trust is what love is made of

And now, my love, my dreams have fallen apart
My simple heart
Can't seem to find a way
To make it through each day
Without you near
Oh, dreams are what love is made of

Try to make it alone (Try to make it alone)
Try to make a new start (Try to make a new start)
Try to find reason why I should believe anyone can reach another

And so, my love, I face a world full of doubt
And think about
The lonely years for me
When in my mind I'll see
What might have been
And know that you were what love is made of

Try to make it alone (Try to make it alone)
Try to make a new start (Try to make a new start)
Try to find reason why I should believe anyone can reach another

And so, my love, I face a world full of doubt
And think about
The lonely years for me
When in my mind I'll see
What might have been
And know that you were what love is made of
