

Fighting for the Same Thing

The Heavy

When it's bigger than love
When it's larger than life
At least at first
Did you think, did you know,
That you're heading for bust,
Before shit gets old?

And it work (work)
When it work (work)
Someone's got to tell it
When the dumb things hurt
When it work (work)
Then it work (work)
Someone's got to call it
Before it hit the hearse

So with time, work, we can make it
If we're fighting for the same thing
And with love, we can make it
If we're fighting for the same thing

Won't ever tear us apart
Promised you as you tamed this heart
Untold control
But nothing more than a worry starts
Saying you (you) you (you)
Make this home shine electric, oh, for two
Who knew-oooh (who) who knew (ooh)
We'd be challenged by the consequence
Of what we wouldn't do

But with time, work, we can make it
If we're fighting for the same thing
And some love won't hurt
If we're fighting for the same thing
Yeah, oh, ow!
If we're fighting for the same thing
And some love, it can't hurt
If we're fighting for the same thing

Gimme some love
You got to gimme some love
Don't you pretend
When it's over
Show me some love
You got to show me some love
We can't pretend
When it's over
Throw me some love
Now won't you throw me some love?
We can't pretend
When it's over
Give me some love
Now won't you give me some love?
We can't pretend anymore

'Cause with time, work, we can make it

If we're fighting for the same thing
And some love won't hurt
If we're fighting for the same thing
Yeah, oh, ow!
If we're fighting for the same thing
We can make it, gonna make it
If we're fighting for the same thing

Fighting for the same thing
