I tossed and turned in bed
Trying to remember every word you said to me
Was I supposed to walk away
From everything I'd ever hoped to have someday?
I thought you could become my cure
The fix to all the trouble I stir
But who are we to ever become?
I'll never close that gap between us
How will I find out what's right?
And every single chance I get
I'll try to remember every word that you said
'Cause every single lie seems to stop the time
I would never find that
Could we ever find the right time?
We can see this through
The time is so wrong and there's nothing that I can do
I'm failing, I just can't believe this
I'm torn not seamless

Was it all a dream
Holding you on my last night in the city?
It seemed to melt away
It feels so good to breathe you
When you said to me
"How could I not agree
I've never felt so alive in someone's company"
But who are we to ever become?
I'm torn not seamless

I said I'd find you in your dreams
And every single chance I get
I'll try to remember every word that you said
'Cause every single lie seems to stop the time
I would never find that
Could we ever find the right time?
We can see this through
The time is so wrong and there's nothing that I can do
I'm failing, I just can't believe this
I'm torn not seamless

If not now, if not now
When can we, when will we ever be?
If not now or somehow
I wish I could trust your sincerity
How will I find out what's right?
I hope you see me in your dreams

And every single chance I get
I'll try to remember every word you said
'Cause every single lie seems to stop the time
I would never find that
Could we ever find the right time?
We can see this through
The time is so wrong and there's nothing that I can do
I'm failing, I just can't believe this
I'm torn, I'm torn
I'm torn not seamless

You left me seamless
I'm torn not seamless
You left me sleepless...

And every single chance I get
I'll try to remember every word you said
'Cause every single lie seems to stop the time
I would never find that
Could we ever find the right time?
I'm torn
