Lonely Man

The Impressions

Mother I cry, with tears in my eyes I'm such a lonely man
The woman I love, she don't realise
That I'm such a lonely man

Though she speaks to me
When our eyes meet passing by
Really she doesn't know I exist
So I'm in love yet such a lonely man

Speak to her, as you go on your way That's what my Mama whispered dear Smile at her now, then make your eyes say That you were really sincere

A great pretender is a woman my son So don't be misled from what she do But if she speaks to you And if she smiles at you

Though none she'll like my son She may be so lone, lonely too
