Another Night

The Infamous Stringdusters

We're running fast into the light
We keep the past just barely out of sight
And I know people don't like to stay
But I never thought you'd leave today, hey
I've got a letter in my hands
A few old memories and a pocket full of sand
And if I told you I could change
I'd be lying just the same, hey

Another night, another night
And all we need to light the flame and give ourselves away
Another night, another night
Looking past your eyes, I see the darkness turn to day, hey

You left a crater in my mind
I can't seem to fill it with whiskey or wine
And so the bibles of our strife
And I throw my hands up to the sky

Another night, another night
And all we need to light the flame and give ourselves away
Another night, another night
Looking past your eyes, I see the darkness turn to day

You're just a wrinkle in time
That tears the fabric of my mind
If there's a way, if there's time
Let the past be left behind

Another night, another night
And all we need to light the flame and give ourselves away
Another night, another night
Looking past your eyes, I see the darkness turn to day

Is there anything I can say
The words, they tumble out, but they can't relate
A little kindness would be alright
In the darkness, there's a light

Another night, another night
And all we need to light the flame and give ourselves away
Another night, another night
Looking past your eyes, I see the darkness turn to day

Another night
