

Watchin' a stretch of road, miles of light explode
Driftin' off a thing I'd never done before
Watchin' a crowd roll in
Out go the lights, it begins
A feelin' in my bones, I never felt before

People always told me
That bars are dark and lonely
And talk is often cheap and filled with air
Sure, sometimes they thrill me
But nothing could ever chill me
Like the way they make the time just disappear

Feelin' you're here again
Hot on my skin again
Feelin' good a thing, I'd never known before
What does it mean to feel?
Millions of dreams come real
A feelin' in my soul, I'd never felt before

And you always told me
No matter how long it holds me
If it falls apart
Or makes us millionaires
You'll be right here forever
Will go through this thing together
On heaven's golden shore we'll lay our heads
