

Chimes

The Joy Formidable

A new sky full of little signs
Don't stop breathing everything that's wild
I thought, I thought I'd felt it all and I felt the rain
Been washed clean and dry by the sun, cracks opening
I think you knew and I think that you sent them
Watching there from nature's lap to sing a new call
Oh, lost courage, don't wait anymore
I know the way to always running

I'll be watching if you were giving up
Breathe in your sighs make them chime all the sweetest notes
I thought waiting, waiting wasn't forgetting
I tell myself it's better than life regretted
I feel my arms around you today
I think you sent them to pick me up in that same way
These softer nights are for us if you're ready
I know the way to always running

There's a tunnel ahead
And there's no light around
Fight as you may
And if you're coming to find it
I'll just let you down
I'll tie this away

We're always running
We're always running
We're always running
We're always running

No more blending, blending of the memory
Between what was real and what I wanted it to be
A sea away, but we're dancing on the same wave
Closing eyes to let go and new rhythms roll in
You don't have to only imagine
You don't have to only imagine
The whispers say time makes you numb
I know the way to always running

There's a tunnel ahead
And there's no light around
Fight as you may
And if you're coming to find it
I'll just let you down
I'll tie this away

We're always running
We're always running
We're always running
We're always running

I'll be watching if you were giving up
Breathe in your sighs, make them chime all the sweetest notes
Chime, chime, chime

We're always running
We're always running

We're always running
We're always running
