

It's Started

The Joy Formidable

Autumn changed to winter
It left outside with you
We'll never think of coming back
The sky is leaving too
I'm not the first or the last
What's done or undone, lose it out of your grasp
Open your eyes and tell me: Is this what you wanted to see?
'Cos baby, it's started

Winter changed to winter
I said, "Baby, you've come early"
I've been waiting up all night to pay the compliment you dearly want
Coming 'round my heart again, you'll find it on the floor
Beating even harder than it was before
Open your eyes and tell me: Is this what you wanted to see?
'Cos baby, it's started
And it got ahead of me

There's no one here to overhear
You can tell me what you want
I know you've done this many times, I've only been here once
Growing up, did you think you'd love anything at all?
'Cos I loved you once, but it's already started

Open your eyes
And tell me: Is this what you saw?
We were on the other side
And I fell overboard
And a hand came down and just touched the water
I lie back to be washed away because I know I'm coming up

Baby, it's started
And you don't know
