

MAYBE I'M WRONG

The Kid LAROI

Heart on my sleeve, sorry if I been cold
I was more hurt than what I had let on
But I'm never scared to admit when I'm wrong
I took down the pictures I kept on my walls
I got so mad I wrote three different songs
But I scrapped them all 'cause it's not what I want
So can we stop?

Because I'm so tired
I put away my pride
That's 'cause I love you too much to fight
Oh, maybe I'm wrong, and maybe you're right
And I know we'll both be fine
It just might take some time
You know I love you too much to fight
Oh, maybe I'm wrong, and maybe you're right
And maybe you're—

I'm well aware that it's over and done
Yeah, I can admit that I lost and you won
Whatever you need so that we can move on
When I think 'bout the good times, the anger dissolves
Can't have each other but still got these songs
Part of my life, you'll never completely be gone
So can we stop?

Because I'm so tired
I put away my pride
That's 'cause I love you too much to fight
Oh, maybe I'm wrong, and maybe you're right
And I know we'll both be fine
It just might take some time
You know I love you too much to fight
Oh, maybe I'm wrong, and maybe you're right
And maybe you're—

Maybe you're right
Maybe you're right

I know we'll both be fine
It just might take some time
You know I love you too much to fight
Oh, maybe I'm wrong, and maybe you're right
