Something Was Missing

The Kite String Tangle

I was waiting for you to have made up your mind
Said you were missing something
I could have been that happy the rest of my life
Never knowing that something

Something was missing
Something was missing

I was hoping that you and I could make it right
Thought we were building something
But the feeling kept pulling on you from inside
Till you told me that something

Something was missing
Something was missing

I was waiting for you to have made up your mind
Said you were missing something
I could have been that happy the rest of my life
Never knowing that something

Something was missing
Something was missing
Something was missing, missing
Something was missing

Something was missing
Something was missing
