

Circles

The K's

And if I'm being honest
I don't know if I will ever recover
Stayed out for another
After closing time
And if you're being honest
Always knew you should've trusted your mother
She told you, "He'll never love ya!"
And that's at least half a lie

But it's just
All good things to those who wait
But I can't help but feel my fate is
Wake up one day at twenty-eight
With nowt but debt, regret and bills to pay

You say, "You know"
You say, "You know you don't deserve us"
You're saying names I've never heard of
I just know they ain't mine
And I know
You're only saying them to hurt us
You say we're going round in circles
And wasting our time

And if you're being honest
You say you're not even sure why you bother
You say, "I've heard nothing of ya
Just let me know you're alive"
But I swear if you'd come over
I'd take the straps from off your shoulders
And you'd swear that I'd have told you a thousand times

But it's just
All good things to those who wait
But I can't help but feel my fate is
Wake up one day at twenty-eight
With nowt but debt, regret and bills to pay

You say, "You know"
You say, "You know you don't deserve us"
You're saying names I've never heard of
I just know they ain't mine
And I know
You're only saying them to hurt us
You say we're going round in circles
And wasting our time

You say, "You know"
You say, "You know you don't deserve us"
You're saying names I've never heard of
I just know they ain't mine
And I know
You're only saying them to hurt us
You say we're going round in circles
And wasting our time
