

Fate's Faithful Punchline

The Legendary Pink Dots

Lined up between the arrows at your heart - is this a charmed life that I lead? Now could it be that some place. Some time, you will stop believing and things that once were charming will feel like sand against your eyes? When I walk into your space, you'll see a thief by night. To send away or lock away or run away from... Will there come a day? Will we have the courage just to walk away while something still remains? Will we keep it pure? Now let this death be noble. Let this death be grand. Don't keep it on a lead... When I think of you I want to see you on a summer day. My treasure. My lover. Together. Alone.