

The One

The Lemon Twigs

I could love anyone and I believe
They'd love me too and never leave
You could love everyone but what do you do?
You frighten them off, they don't matter to you

You move onto another person
No one can give you what you want
You love someone when their heart is hurting
But they could never be the one

I think you're beautiful, well, isn't it strange?
Stay here with me, and never change
We could be suitable, like one in the same
A light in the world, ever dark and mundane

But you move onto another person
No one can give you what you want
You love someone when their heart is hurting
But they could never be the one

You move onto another person
No one can give you what you want
You love someone when their heart is hurting
But they could never be the one

You move onto another person
No one can give you what you want
You love someone when their heart is hurting
But they could never be the one