

A Life Less Ordinary

The Levellers

This is your world But we say no way I won't go
A life less ordinary Is the one I chose
Far away from the souls still healing
We rise with the sun To the hope of freedom

Hey I think we met before Smoking cigarettes on the dance floor
By flickering light the faintest trace
The contours of a familiar face

Those Thunderbird days and Acid nights
How we set the world to rights
We learned to love the motorway
And those roadside parties lasted for days

In your eyes the West-world turning
In our hearts a dream to yearn
We nursed our anger, tried to hide
But you and I were born to collide

Babylon we used to say Will be burned to the ground one day
It's just a broken dream away
And another ugly morning
