The Levellers

If you got a job, you can be an agent
You can work for revolution
From your place of employment
If you work in the factory, throw a spanner in the works
Internal sabotage, hit them where it hurts

Subvert...

If you got a job, where they treat you like a slave
Where they treat you like a zombie
In a corporate grave
If you work in the office, making tea for the bosses
While they're getting richer on the ten times you pay
They may think you're stupid but you're working undercover
You've got the potential to disobey

Subvert...

If you got a job, 'cause there's nothing else to do
Where they think they've got you trapped
In the box that they choose
If you got a job, you can be an agent
If you work in the office you can redistribute food
If you are a policeman ordered to arrest me
You don't have to do it, you can refuse
