

Borders and Towns

The Lonely Forest

"Dream sweet!" she says,
Hangs up the phone.
I pause to take it all in.
I think she loves me, oh.
I could hear it in her voice.

Oh. Oh how I long,
Long to be there.
Sing her to sleep,
Tell her..

I will lead you along
Down an honest path into patient love.
And though we may fall,
This I promise you:
That you can sleep dear,
I'll be right here for you.

This one won't be an empty promise.
I'm gonna work to define this.
To build something real.
So now across borders and towns,
I dream, I dream of her intimate eyes
And her kind giving heart.

Oh. Oh how I long,
Long to be there.
Sing her to sleep,
Tell her..

I will lead you along
Down an honest path into patient love.
And though we may fall,
This I promise you:
That you can sleep dear,
I'll be right here
You can sleep dear,
I'll be right here for you.
For you.
For you.
For you.
