

It Hurts Me More the Second Time Around

The Louvin Brothers

I came back to you believing this time we'd work things out
Even though we tried it once before and failed

I put both my arms around you as I vowed my love again
And completely cast myself beneath your spell

But the second time around it turned out just like the first Except the second time around I think the heartache was worse

For twice I put my faith in you and twice you let me down

But it hurt me more the second time around

I think I'll write myself a letter and address it to a fool
Cause nobody but a fool would love you so

And if you came back tomorrow and you wanted me again
I don't believe I'd have the strength to tell you no

But the second time around it turned out just like the first
Except the second time around I think the heartache was worse
For twice I put my faith in you and twice you let me down
But it hurt me more the second time around
