

I'd Be Lying

The Material

Each day I see it
The memory of me leaving
I still don't even know the reason why

Early one morning
I left a note with no warning
Too scared to even really say goodbye

Oh I wish you could hear the truth

That I'd be lying if I said
That I don't need you
And I'd be lying if I said
I'm better off alone
And I've been trying to forget
The day I let you go
I'd be lying
But I guess you'll never know

You were what I needed
But I was too blind to see it
I know that you never would have let me fall
(Now I'm falling down)

And now it's too late
You've gone away without a trace
It's like you were never even here at all

Oh I wish you could hear the truth

That I'd be lying if I said
That I don't need you
And I'd be lying if I said
I'm better off alone
And I've been trying to forget
The day I let you go
I'd be lying
But I guess you'll never know

I'm a wreck when you are gone
I know now that I was wrong
I need you, I need to find you
Come back, come back, come back to me

And I'd be lying if I said, ohh
I'd be lying if I said
(Come back, come back, come back to me)

That I'd be lying if I said
That I don't need you
And I'd be lying if I said
I'm better off alone
And I've been trying to forget
The day I let you go
I'd be lying
But I guess you'll never know

That I'd be lying if I said
That I don't need you
And I'd be lying if I said
I'm better off alone
And I've been trying to forget
The day I let you go
I'd be lying
But I guess you'll never know

(I'm a wreck when you are gone
I know now that I was wrong
I need you, I need to find you
Come back, come back, come back to me)