

Secondhand

The Never Ending

I've been dumb and so heart sick
Dumb enough to fall
For all of my heart's tricks
Well strike me up and watch me burn
For secrets now I hide
For lessons now I've learned

Will you love me
After where I've been
Will you hold me
And not feel my skin
Can you see me right
Through my scars
Will you love me
And my secondhand heart

I tried hard enough to show
I wouldn't let you in
I couldn't let you go
Well strike me up and watch me burn
For secrets we all hide
For lessons we've all learned

Will you love me
After where I've been
Will you hold me
And not feel my skin
Can you see me
Through my scars
Will you love me
And my secondhand heart

I have tried so many times
To find reasons why
I'm in your sights
When all you have in me
Is that we're happy
Am I enough
To keep me in your life

Would you love me
After where I've been
Could you hold me
And not feel my skin
Can you see me
Right past my scars
Please just love me

And my secondhand heart