

The Surprise Knock

The New Pornographers

Drive off the map into the realm of the stars
Didn't need a war, but now this one is ours
Smile along until the coast is clear
Like anything that you would learn to fear

Let it play in the background, tune out the sound
Didn't need a war but we got one now
We'll write the chords as they repeat for years
We may be on, be on to something to here

The logic's from before
No insight to seek for

Drifting like proper castaways
Didn't need a one but it's here I'd say
So smile big until it's thrown us clear
We might be on, be on to something to here

The logic's from before
No insight to seek for

And then the surprise knock on your door
The surprise knock on your door
The surprise knock on your door

Drive off the map but take the long way 'round
Didn't know the score but we knew we were down
It won't be long until we grind the gears
But carry on, we're onto something here

The logic's from before
No insight to seek for

And then the surprise knock on your door
The surprise knock on your door
The surprise knock on your door

Drive off the map till the horizon bleeds
Didn't need a war but we got one, see
We had it wrong when it was all so clear
We might be on, be on to something here

Drifting like proper castaways
Didn't need a war but it's here, I'd say
So smile big until it's thrown us clear
We might be on, be on to something to here

And then the surprise knock on your door
The surprise knock on your door
The surprise knock on your door
The surprise knock on your door