Shine

The Nixons

She walks into the room, says, "What can I do for you today?"
Started out hard, now it's just a job gets easier everyday
When she was seventeen she had so many dreams, my how things ch ange
Left her one night after inventing a fight, another mouth on th e way

What did you want? When you began?
How do you think you came to this end?
Now, you're aching, aching, say, "This pain is mine"
Wanting, waiting, waiting to shine

Steps into the room everything goes black, that's all she said she knew
Every few months somebody gets rough, really nothing new
She closes her eyes, dreams of a time, dreams a better way
Now, she only wants a life for the one in her life gets her thr ough the day

What did you want? When you began?
How do you think you came to this end?
Now, you're aching, aching, say, "This pain is mine"
Wanting, waiting, waiting to shine

What do you see? Becoming to clear
Close your eyes, it will all disappear

Now, your aching, aching it's all in your mind
Wanting, waiting, waiting to shine
Know that you're hoping, hoping you'll find
Only wanting you to shine

When she was seventeen she had such dreams
My how things change
