

Come To The Manger

The Oak Ridge Boys

It's an old invitation engraved in the heart
One to remember when we're drifting apart
To all races and nations to shepherds and kings
A Savior is born
The age has begun when the meek and the mighty are one
When we all to the manger come

In our darkest of hours wherever we are
The shadows are parted by the light from His star
From all men and women there rises a song
A Savior is born
The age has begun when the meek and the mighty are one
When we all to the manger come

So come, come to the manger
You will find peace in His light
A child so mighty in a stable so small
In His heavenly Kingdom there's a place for us all
And all that He asks for is your love in return
A Savior is born
The age has begun when the meek and the mighty are one
When we all to the manger come
