

Arrows Before Bullets

The Ongoing Concept

Why?

Did you have to take her away?

She never chose her family so why am I stuck with this burden to bring her back

She has the wisdom and you have the power

But I have the courage to bring her back

What else do I need but that?

It's a shame you forgot I existed

I'm the only thing that your afraid of

And you should be

Cause fate has it that you won't win

But you will try anyway

You might be stronger then me

But no ones been taken away from you

I'll never stop till I get what I came for

And I'll never break that promise

Through forest, sand, shadow, fire, and water

Will never defeat me long as I'm living

Nothing that you have will ever stand in my way

And Now I fight back

Arrows to your chest

That's what you get for taking my girl

Don't take her again

Don't take my girl again

(Don't take her away)

You might be stronger then me

But no one has been taken away from you

I'll never stop till I get what I came for

And I'll never break that promise

I'll keep fighting no matter what

As long as I'm breathing

(As long as I'm standing)

I'll always have time on my side

You think you can take her away

But you forgot one thing

Next time that I see you

I'll be 7 years stronger

You don't stand a chance cause I have the one thing that you don't have

I'll shine this light into your eye one last time before you die

And as you drop to your knees

I'll seal you forever in time
