

At the Rainbow's End

The Osmonds

Rain outside my window, when I want to walk through the park
All the time, I want the sunshine. Sure enough, I'm alone in the dark

Guess whatever I choose, never win, I was born to lose

But at the rainbow's end, that's where I've never been
And though I always try, I can't fly away
At the rainbow's end, you can begin again
It's where your dreams will never die

Lady luck, where are you, and when are you gonna be staying with me?

Let me realize the feeling of having just one good memory
'Cause right now, all I can recall is that I have nothing at all

But at the rainbow's end, that's where I've never been
And though I always try, I can't fly away
At the rainbow's end, you can begin again
It's where your dreams will never die

At the rainbow's end, that's where I've never been
And though I always try, I can't fly away
At the rainbow's end, you can begin again
It's where your dreams will never die, oh...
