

True Believer

The Ozark Mountain Daredevils

tomorrow you my be preachin' high on a hill and some people that come to see you may feel a thrill everybody's gawking at you some are even laughing at you again but they never thought they'd see you again nearly a hundred summers have faded away since the fool and the schemer the old drunken dreamer were saved villages are filled with stories of each and every one of your glories again but they never thought they'd see you no, they never thought they'd see you never thought they'd see you again maybe you're an actor acting maybe you're a faker taking again maybe I'm a true believer or maybe just a lover leavin' a friend but I never thought I'd see you no, I never thought I'd see you never thought I'd see you again
