

The Devil In Me

The Paramedic

No, you can't turn your back on this now
You can't play the coward and run
You can't flee from destiny
Lest you be the prodigal son

Just gaze at what you've done
You've come so far my child
Basking in the glory of your triumphs
With your head in the skies

Now watch as the world changes around you
Time is your master
You'll always be powerless
And you know it all too well
There's no sense in looking back
We're too late
You gave into cowardice

Existence won't sway my course
Strive to be remembered
We'll take this world by force

It seems we've reached this impass
Not a moment too soon
We control our own destinies
Our Souls progress
Though we're beaten
And we're battered
We've been destroyed
And we've been shattered

But we sing

I must scream to be heard
I promise I'll scream to be heard.
