

Beyond The Moon

The Pillows

you are the most beautiful sunflower in town,

I am the crescent moon

though we can meet at the cracks of dawn, soon the sun steals you away the warm light that illuminates the world everyone is probably waiting for it shining only when you're sleeping,

I am the crescent moon

no matter how strongly I shine,

I'm not something like 'radiant' encouraged by the stars, tonight too shines blue, though I can't get you to turn and look dreaming a dream that won't be realized, oh no it's like I'm waning away bit by bit into nothing continuing to sing a lullaby you don't know,

I am the crescent moon

when I can't even become the full moon, something like the sun is a completely different world leaving yourself to summer and smiling like a picture, you're more wonderful than anybody having this love that won't reach, oh no as it is, it's like I'll be absorbed into the darkness without showing my tears, I quietly watched that form coming into full bloom dreaming a dream that won't be realized, oh no it's like I'm waning away bit by bit into nothing having this love that won't reach, oh no as it is, it's like I'll be absorbed into the darkness my beautiful sunflower

I love you