

February 13th

The Pineapple Thief

We can't go back
This February day is all I have
And these wilting flowers
And this February day is all I have

This February's cold
This February's cold
I just want to save your world
I just want to save your world

I saw white angels
Come to me
To pull the wool back across my eyes
So we pray to God when
This February day is all I have

This February's cold
This February's cold
I just want to save your world
I just want to save your world

This February's cold
This February's cold
I just want to save your world
I just want to save your world

And now we're getting old
And now we're getting old
I cannot save your world
I cannot save your world
