

Calling Out

The Protomen

When the sky filled with fire, we saw the world come crashing down

Hands of steel, hearts of iron lit a flame that won't go out
We're gonna keep getting stronger, not afraid to risk it all
But the choice now is yours, how we'll stand or how we'll fall

Can you open your eyes, see the blood's on the ground?
Can't you hear them calling out?
You can try and deny but your heart knows the sound
You can hear them calling out

There's a way this will end like a train on a single track
And your father knew it and now we're here and we must go back

I saw the look in his eyes, saw the fire raining down
Can't you hear him calling out?
You can try and deny but your heart knows the sound
You can hear him calling out

Won't you open your eyes, see the blood's on the ground?
Can't you hear them calling out?
You can try and deny but your heart knows the sound
You can hear them calling out
Won't you open your eyes, see the fire raining down?
Can't you hear them calling out?
There's a chance to survive but we've got to go now
I can hear them calling out

(Open your eyes, see the blood's on the ground)
You will hear them calling out
(You can try and deny but your heart knows the sound)
I can hear them calling out