

Forgotten World

The Raven Age

Enter the iron gates of hell
And work will make you free
Sinking into their skin
One by one, they bleed
A beauty to behold
Fixated as she stands in front of me
In silent reverie

There's something
Inside me
That I now see
Purpose in this
Bleak existence
Falling (falling)
Means burning (means burning)
We must break free
(I will defeat these demons)

I see the sun and now it's turning black
Empty of color but the blood running down
I try to fight the tears and hold them back
Locked inside this forgotten world

Another sleepless night goes by for me
Does she still breathe?
My soul has died and now my body's waiting
Dead eyes are staring through me
Motion takes me to an endless sleep
But then he saved me

There's something
Inside me
That I now see
Purpose in this
Bleak existence
Falling (falling)
Means burning (means burning)
We must break free
(I will defeat these demons)

I see the sun and now it's turning black
Empty of color but the blood running down
I try to fight the tears and hold them back
Locked inside this forgotten world

Rain, blackened with ashes
Is scattered all around
A place that hell wouldn't dream to see
Life beckoned by death
Bestowed upon us all

I see the sun and now it's turning black
Empty of color but the blood running down
I try to fight the tears and hold them back
Locked inside this forgotten world