The Reytons

Like a bullet from the trap you should've backed it from the start

Lurking in the shadows, how'd the hell you miss your mark
Could've been your shades or were you blinded by the favourites?

Failed in intuition quick to kick em to the pavement

They don't like that type around here you better go look elsewhere

There will be some conversations about what they lost and how much it cost

They don't like that type around here you better go look elsewhere

Get ready to lose, there's nothing to prove, the hares on the move and all bets are off now

They [?] from the winnings, should've cashed out when you could, politics and pundits leave them all misunderstood

Overdosed on confidence and rattling with failure

Barking in the background they've been battling Fantasia

Now the hare is on the move, so be careful who you choose

Ignorance is virtue when it comes to independence

While reaping back the revenue from thousands in attendance

They don't like that type around here you better go look elsewhere

There will be some conversations about what they lost and how much it cost

They don't like that type around here you better go look elsewhere

Get ready to lose, there's nothing to prove, the hares on the move and all bets are off now

Gamble at your own risk but don't be so surprised

When the one you should've backed was the one you left behind

Greedy with the eyes and compromise your own agenda

Now tag em in that photo finish just so they remember

Like a bullet from the trap you should've backed it from the start

Lurking in the shadows, how'd the hell you miss your mark
Could've been your shades or were you blinded by the favourites?

Failed in intuition quick to kick em to the pavement

They don't like that type around here you better go look elsewhere
