

Landslide

The Reytons

She woke up feeling tender
Lost her soul around the embers
Searching for the night she won't forget but can't remember
She's got them blue bloodshot eyes
Her makeup tells you no lies
Did you compromise on bad advice?
Did you really need to go?

Let's take it out for the last time
Leave when we're caught sleeping, alright
Break out the boundaries of both sides
Take everything from the inside

I don't know if I could make you better
But I know for sure that we should
Let go and just ride the landslide

She woke up feeling tired but satisfied
The night's not yet begun
Waiting for a chance to sneak away despite being overrun
The sound is slipping away
She's got no reason to stay
Can we compromise despite advice
Do you really need to go?

Let's take it out for the last time
Leave when we're caught sleeping, alright
Break out the boundaries of both sides
Take everything from the inside

I don't know if I could make you better
But I know for sure that we should
Let go and just ride the landslide

Let's take it out for the last time
Leave when we're caught sleeping, alright
Break out the boundaries of both sides
Take everything from the inside
Let's take it out for the last time
Leave when we're caught sleeping, alright
Break out the boundaries of both sides
Take everything from the inside

I don't know if I could make you better
But I know for sure that we should
Let go and just ride the landslide
Let go and just ride the landslide
Let go and just ride the landslide