

Germany & Rome

The Ridleys

I was driving down the highway with no destination in mind
You were sleeping, lying sideways, with your car seat reclined
You were smiling as the angels guarded you from up above
And I couldn't help but wonder what you were dreaming of

When I told you that I loved you, well, I never would've guessed
d

That you'd end up loving me too, and well, you know the rest
In that morning birds were chirping and the grass was wet with dew

There and then, I saw the world from a different point of view

A storm is raging right outside our doors
No, I have never felt a love like this before
We have traveled far to Germany and Rome
But in the end, I know we'll find a way back home
Yes, in the end, I know we'll find a way back

A storm is raging right outside our doors
No, I have never felt a love like this before
We've traveled far from Germany and Rome
But in the end, I know we'll find a way back
