Black Leather And Glittering Steel

We drank 'till the sunrise Rode away singin' Johnny's back again Maybe I'm wrong - maybe I've really just been away too Long

There a few who remember Fewer still who remember why They ain't still ready to fight but I've had the world At my feet And I know it's right

I wanna crawl from the wreckage again Feel the kiss of twisted metal Like a drink running hot in my veins I've got a score to settle

Black leather and glittering Steel They're calling me back So I'm turning my head to the wheel Black leather and glittering steel I'm thirsty for more So I'm sending my foot to the floor

Looks nobody's buying Looks to me you can't go home again So I'm riding alone Maybe the lights are on - but nobody's home

So long to my brothers Later on once again you're left behind Are you lashed to the mast Or will you drown in the chair Where I found you last

I wann feel the wind in my face And the velvet shimmering limousines Like a kiss from the queen of the damned Like the smell of gasoline

Black leather and glittering Steel They're calling me back So I'm turning my head to the wheel Black leather and glittering steel I'm thirsty for more So I'm sending my foot to the floor

I wanna crawl from the wreckage again Feel the kiss of twisted metal Like a drink running hot in my veins I've got a score to settle

Black leather and glittering Steel They're calling me back So I'm turning my head to the wheel Black leather and glittering steel I'm thirsty for more Jišterom psendarg my foot to the floor
