

You're the One

The Roches

You're the love of my life

Is there any way I can get to see you?

Have a cup of coffee maybe somethin' like that

I was in a maze of buildings runnin' all around like a rat

In the middle of the night

All of those years that I got lost without you

Tracking the equator all the way to the north pole

Looking for a home or dead end to this longing in my soul

Honey, you were my friend, if the truth be told

I can understand though if you don't remember

All you have to do is say the word and I'll go

This is just a dream that I've been holding onto God

I don't know it's so hard to let it come

You're the one that I want
