

O

The Rose

Under the rain, our broken hearts
Through the storm, we find our spark
Under the reign where hope resides
We all come together within
Where the children are running
And not running away from falling stars
Imagine all the people living life in peace, oh, woah

We are the world
Our voices echo on
And pierce the walls
We are the world
No colors to divide
Just come as one
We go as one

Over the lines, across the skies
Beneath the stars, our hearts align
Until the day the king resigns
Let kingdoms fall for dreams to rise
Some may say that I'm dreamin'
Something we have forgotten how to do
Everything will find its place
If we seize the love, oh, oh

We are the world
Our voices echo on
And pierce the walls
We are the world
No colors to divide
Just come as one

We come and go
As we desire
Things come and go
As they desire
But the essence will remain
Where it belongs

We are the world
Our voices echo on
And pierce the walls
We are the world
No colors to divide
Just come as one
We are the world
No colors to divide
Just come as one
We go as one