

God Forgot

The Rubens

Not sad enough to watch what's takin' place
Not sellin' off my feeling to relate
But you can name a prize, oh you're eloquent, that's nice
Praise be on how to fate to

God already forgot me
Cut off both my hands, change the locks again
That's alright, 'cause an angel caught me
She pays all my rent, paints the walls and then sings all night
All night, all night
Gospel can't compete with her, they don't shine a light
All right, all right, all right yeah
I'll be good forever, 'least the rest of my life, all right

My friends and I considering the polls
More drinks so we can study different rules
I drop out on your hands, no pockets in my pants
No problem could be solved so
What's wrong with her, got nothing in my head, yeah
What's calling out those memories again
I once was at a loss, the saviour cut me off
Before you came along it was

God who already forgot me
Cut off both my hands, change the locks again
That's alright, a fuckin' an angel caught me
She pays all my rent, paints the walls and then sings all night
All night, all night, yeah
Gospel can't compete with her, they don't shine a light
All right, all right, all right yeah
I'll be good forever, 'least the rest of my life, all right

So what, God forgot
So what, carry on
So what, don't we get off
I know this place on the next, next part

You're the best that there is on this Earth
You know what, you know that you are
You know what, you know that you are the best that there is on this Earth
You're the best that there is on this Earth
You know what, you know that you are
You know what, you know that you are the best that there is on this Earth

But God already forgot me
Cut off both my hands, change the locks again
That's alright, a fuckin' an angel caught me
She pays all my rent, paints the walls and then sings all night
All night, all night yeah
Gospel can't compete with her, they don't shine a light
All right, all right, all right yeah
I'll be good forever, 'least the rest of my life
I'll be good forever, 'least the rest of my life, all right

- Hey Scotty, hear the kick drum?
- Fuck me
